

THE CantAPenta-MACHINE

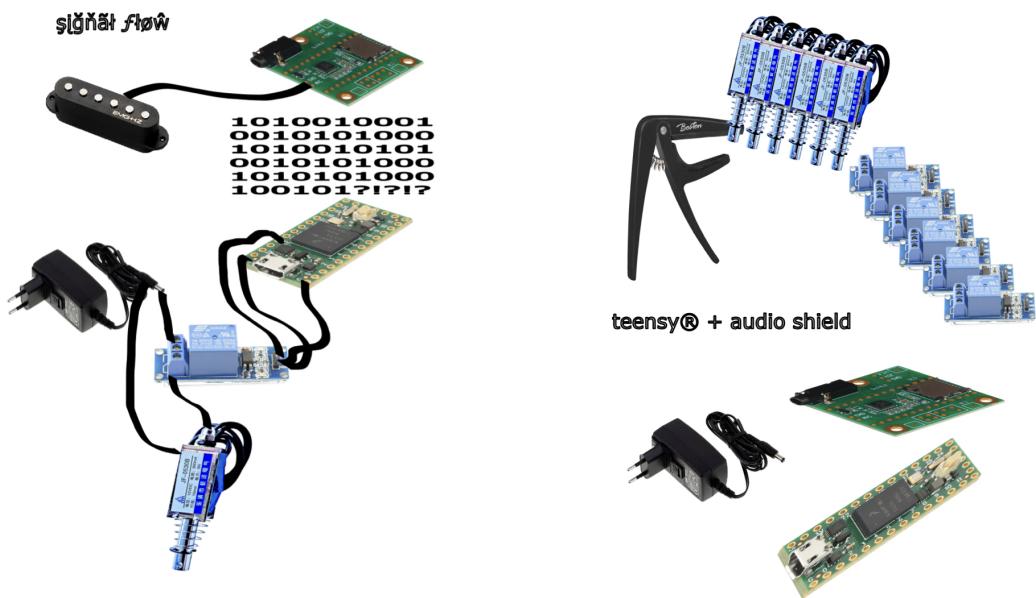

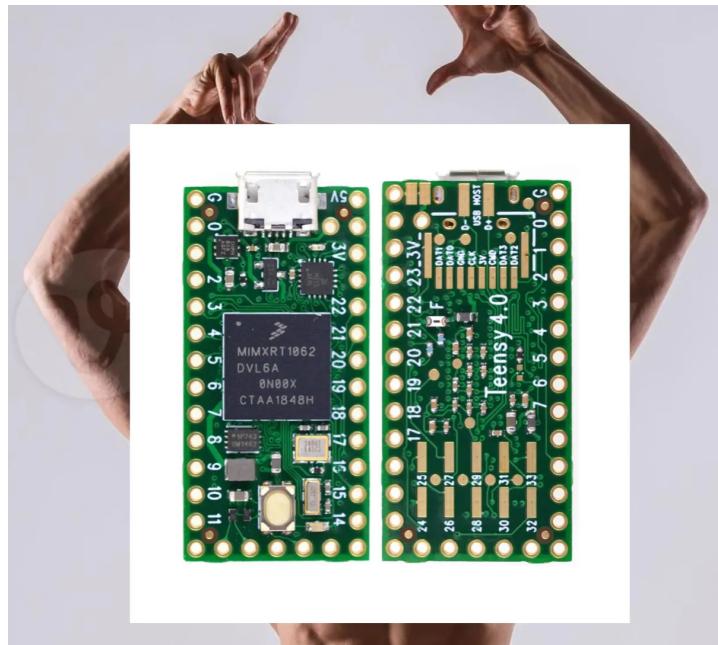

We all know AC/DC, Led Zeppelin, some other band your dad made you listen to in the car. what was the thing that unified all of these bands and made you so bored while your dad felt so inspired?

it comes from the dreaded

Pentatonic Scale. if you were to ask any musical snob its the lowest of the low in musical phrasing? well lets see if simply adding one or 2 notes really can make your music sound better somehow, or should we all just give up while we're ahead?

solution: solanoids. use some electronic hammers to play notes on the guitar whenever the (see picture below) teensy chip notices you're only playing pentatonic notes.

SINGLA FLOW